English Funfair 2011

On Saturday 16th April, Liu Po Shan Memorial College held the annual English Funfair in the covered playground and English Corner. Students from LPS, teachers, primary students and parents attended the Funfair and enjoyed the numerous opportunities to play games, eat snacks, and practise English. Students from LPS and visiting primary schools were each given a ticket to collect stamps. Stamps were earned by participating in as many events as possible, with a maximum of 22 points.

English teachers helped to design the games and ensured that students were participating and practising English. Although teachers designed games and managed the event, student helpers ran the game stalls. A popular game was 'Be an Angry Bird'. Students would get two or three Angry Bird toys and would have to seesaw them onto a grid of nine categories. The students would then have to say a word that matched the category the Angry Bird had landed on. In addition to the games developed by the teachers, there was a large selection of new games provided by the Chatteris Educational Foundation. Some of these games included Soft Ball Attack, Save the Animals, Star Shot, Animal Darts and Ball Pit Grab. Ball Pit Grab was a very popular game that involved students being asked questions and having to search for the answers in a ball pool using mechanical arms.

Another popular event at the funfair was face painting. Riz Yiu led the face painting booth and encouraged students to speak English while she painted creative and colorful patterns on their faces and arms.

Halfway through the Funfair, students went to the hall where the English Drama Club put on a performance of "Angel-A-Devil." The play was entertaining and amusing, telling the story of a young boy who was always wishing his life away. We saw the main character being fast forwarded into the future and missing out on crucial moments of his life such as university and his son's birth just so he could reap the rewards of a successful job and not do the hard work to get there.

The primary students and Form 1 students enjoyed the play and laughed at the antics of the Angel played by Lau Chung Chak from 4D.

The Funfair finished at 12:30p.m. At this time students were encouraged to turn in their score tickets and collect their prizes. All prizes were given a value based on the number of stamps students collected. There were numerous prizes that students could win, including Harry Potter hats and T-shirts, toy swords, and an assortment of cuddly toys.

This year's English Funfair was a huge success. The students had a great time and many primary students were enthusiastic about the games and the drama performance. The student helpers consistently urged students to speak in English and everyone had a sense of accomplishment when they were able to win a prize.
